

Pain

A dark and silent day,
Black clouds above my brain,
I walked alone my way
With hoplessness and pain.

Grey walls before my eyes
Left my without reason
I look for clearer skies
And waited for my season

The house that I could see
It looks extremely old
Over shadowed by a tree
I suddenly felt cold.

I went into my fear
And hear alarming cry
I saw something appear
A wizard, he walked by.

I knew his inclination,
I saw his evil face,
I heard deep intonation,
I felt his evil grace.

He seized me by my brain,
He shot into my mind
With hoplessness and pain –
I felt my eyes were blind.

My heart and soul so high,
My brain and mind so kind
But I heard my body cry,
My life was over and blind

I didn't understand
This power of the peace
Supposed it was a hand
Which helped me, oh god please.
