

Through the open door

Touch my face and kiss my lips again,
Before you leave me in the morning.
Words and signs I really understand, I do!
But run away, far away... from home.

Run away through the open door
Run away through the open door
Run away through the open door
Run away through the open door

Call my name when you are satisfied,
Cry in my arms for the last time.
Words and signs I really understand, I do!
But run away, far away... from home.

Run away through the open door
Run away through the open door
Run away through the open door
Run away through the open door

Run away through the open door
Run away through the open door
Run away through the open door
Run away through the open door
